

PLUNGE STOLEN AUTO INTO BIG CROWD AT LEVEE

Bud Staats and Theresa Sadowski Struck by Machine; Others Have Narrow Escape

DRIVER AND PARTY ESCAPE

Occupants Leap from Vehicle After Accident and Run; Police Have Clue to Identity

CAR BELONGED TO MRS. GANTERT

Had Been Pushed from the Garage at Thirteenth and Main Early in Evening They Claim

A stolen automobile, filled with riotous "joyriders" at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night, plunged into a crowd of people at Front and Main streets, injuring two and making escape miraculous for hundreds of others who were in the crowd returning from a river excursion.

The machine was the property of Mrs. S. Gantert, Thirteenth and

Stephen Ross Driver
Today it was claimed that the car was driven by Stephen Ross, aged 19, 913 Vine street, a relative of Mrs. Gantert. While the police have not positively verified this their suspicions are in a measure substantiated by the story that Ross was seen leaving the city on a train soon after the accident and last night did not show up at his home.

Main streets, and, according to the story told by Mr. George Gantert this morning, had been pushed from the garage at the residence some time after 8:30 o'clock Saturday night.

The occupants of the car leaped from the machine and in the excitement following the mixup made their escape. To date no arrests have been made although it is understood that the police have clues to the identity of the driver and his friends.

Two Are Injured

Bud Staats, 1105 Caledonia street, and Miss Theresa Sadowski, 1423 West Avenue South, who were returning from the river trip, were in the path of the machine as it came plunging down Main street. They were struck and knocked down. Others in the crowd had narrow escapes and more would have undoubtedly been hurt had the car not been brought to a stop against the curb.

The injured couple were immediately rushed to the La Crosse hospital in an auto belonging to Mrs. F. W. Sillaway, 1105 Caledonia street. An examination showed them not seriously injured and they were taken home.

Stolen From Garage

According to the story of Mr. Geo. Gantert, the auto had been put up for the night in the garage at Thirteenth and Main streets. The unknowns entered the garage and pushed the machine out, not starting the engine for fear of attracting attention. The machine was

John Strange

Menasha man who announces candidacy for United States senate.

STRANGE DECLARES CANDIDACY TODAY

Former Lieut. Governor in Letter to The Tribune Gives Reason for Entering Senate Race

FAVORS THE PROTECTIVE TARIFF

Industries Must Be Safeguarded He Writes; Need More Businessmen in Congress

John Strange, Menasha, Wis., twice lieutenant governor of Wisconsin and once unsuccessful in a race for the United States senate, in a letter to Joseph K. Kidder of The Tribune, announces his candidacy for the United States senatorial nomination to succeed Isaac Stephenson whose term expires in 1914. The announcement follows the publication in The Tribune last week of a rumor to the effect that both he and S. A. Cook, Neenah, were to be candidates.

Mr. Strange does not state specifically what his platform will be but it is to be inferred from his letter that he will stand for a protective tariff.

In his own words he maintains that "A nation is great or weak in proportion to the greatness or weakness of its industries, and I am a strong supporter of the gospel of protection to American industries, in the interests of all our people."

Businessmen Needed
Mr. Strange says his experience in Washington recently impressed upon him the necessity of having men in the United States senate who knew something about the actual business conditions of the country.

"During the Taft administration," he writes, "I spent about a month in Washington in an honest effort to prevent the passage of a very unbusinesslike and decidedly anti-American 'rip-up-and-put' bill; which Mr. Taft called 'reciprocity,' and I became strongly impressed, in my contact with senators and members of congress, of the need of more men familiar with business conditions than are now to be found in either of the houses of congress."

"Too Many Lawyers"
Mr. Strange explains that he found "altogether too many lawyers" among the nation's law makers.

Mr. Strange said that heretofore he has always given "free expression to my views upon public matters and have always attempted to stand fairly and squarely for what was true, honest, progressive government in theory, but more particularly in practice."

LET MAN DROWN

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 4.—John Gentz, a molder, fell overboard Sunday evening and was drowned ten minutes after the steamer Kansas left the harbor on a moonlight excursion on the lake. Charles Klingemeyer saw the accident and gave the alarm, but no one heeded it until the boat was several miles away when rescue was out of question.

FIND BODY ON TRUCKS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 4.—The mangled remains of a man, believed to have been a tramp, was found on the rear trucks of the Milwaukee road's Copper Country Limited when the train reached Milwaukee early today from the north. There was nothing by which he could be identified.

DISAPPEARS ON WALK

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 4.—Robert Blythe, 55, went out for a walk last Thursday evening and has not been seen since. His family fears he has met with an accident as he had no reasons for leaving home. He was dressed in his working clothes and took no money along.

ENGLEMAN LOSES BATTLE FOR LIFE

Lockjaw Conquers Every Effort of Physicians to Save Professor's Son

CAUSED BY PRONG OF RUSTY RAKE

Wound Unheeded Until Signs of Dread Disease Showed Themselves

Despite efforts of physicians to counteract the deadly lockjaw poison, Kemp Engleman, 1330 Vine street, 15 year old son of Professor James O. Engleman of the Normal school died at his home this morning at 4 o'clock following a night spent in convulsions. Young Engleman stepped on the prong of a rusty rake on the afternoon of July 17, while going over his route as a carrier for The Tribune, and in a few days lockjaw set in.

The rusty prong sank deep into the flesh of the boy's foot, but he did not think it serious and for a time he did not tell his mother, who was alone, his father having left the city for a few days. The wound was dressed at his home, and nothing more was thought of it until July 24 when signs of the dreaded disease appeared, and Dr. J. A. Rowles was called.

Use Serum
Upon examination he found that lock jaw had set in, and anti-tetanus serum was injected in the boy's veins. It was thought by the doctor that this would save the boy's life. A short time after the physician was summoned the jaws began to close and it was impossible for food to pass them. He could take only liquids through a glass tube. Last Monday Dr. Rowles called Dr. W. E. Bannen for a consultation as to the young man's condition, and everything possible was done to prevent death. Dr. A. A. Maurer was also called.

The boy's condition did not materially change until yesterday when he began to have convulsions and became rapidly worse. The physicians worked over him all of yesterday afternoon and last night until he died, giving restoratives. They are of the opinion that the boy's heart was too weak to stand the hard strain. Kemp Engleman was very tall for his age and his vitality had been exhausted by his rapid growth.

Born in Indiana

Young Engleman was born May 4, 1898, near New Albany, Ind., attending the public schools of Terre Haute, Ind., and coming to this city about four years ago with his parents where he attended the model school of the normal for two years. He has attended the high school here for the past two years and would have been in his junior year should he have lived for the coming term. His records in school have been remarkable. He joined the Presbyterian church in Indiana when he was nine years of age, bringing his letter to the First Presbyterian church of this city when he came here with his parents. He joined the Christian Endeavor society of the church last winter and was an active member of the society.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 10:30 from the residence. Rev. D. C. Jones will officiate. The pall bearers will be: Theodore Johnson, Ted Cronon and Harry Leithold of the First Presbyterian church; Christian Endeavor society and Roger Laeck, John Dickens and Wallace Schall, who were fellow students with Engleman at the high school. Interment will be made at Oak Grove cemetery.

VENEZUELA AFFAIR BECOMES SERIOUS

The State Department Sees Trouble Ahead as Result of Castro's Return

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—With new aspirants for the presidency announcing that they too, were preparing to start a "patriotic" revolution, the state department today realized fully what a serious situation it faced in the return of Cipriano Castro, to Venezuela.

Every effort is being made to prevent the shipment of arms from this country to the Castro forces in Venezuela, but officials here fear that when the slippery revolutionist wormed his way into the country he did not go unprepared to arm the force he felt certain of raising.

In New York today the department learned; Gen. Jose Manuel Hernandez and his followers, the "Young Turks of Venezuela," were preparing to return to their country to wage war against both Castro and President Gomez that they may place a "progressive" president in the executive chair.

DECLARE HOLIDAY FOR BALL OPENER

Formal Getaway of the Northern League Team in La Crosse to Be Made Wednesday

TO START OFF WITH BIG PARADE

Band Will Lead Players and Fans to the Ball Park and Mayor Will Pitch First Ball

La Crosse fans will enjoy a half holiday Wednesday afternoon for the formal opening and second game of the Northern baseball league in this city. Mayor Ori J. Sorensen

The Mayor's Proclamation
Taking cognizance of the home coming of the La Crosse baseball club, I would suggest that, so far as possible, business houses close for a few hours Wednesday afternoon, in order that citizens be given an opportunity to witness the second game of the home series. Wednesday will be La Crosse day at the ball park, and if the manufacturers and jobbers join with the retail merchants in declaring a half holiday for this occasion there is no doubt that the league club season will be given a most auspicious start. I trust that the attendance Wednesday afternoon will be truly representative of the city's diversified interests and that the La Crosse club will be given the support at home it deserves throughout the season.
(Signed)

has declared a half holiday and has agreed, "if his arm is in condition" to pitch the first ball in the game with Winnipeg on that afternoon.

At 2:30 a parade will be formed at the market square and with the mayor leading will wind its course out Main street. The procession will be led off by a band, and following will come automobiles bearing the directors of the local baseball association, city officials, and the Winnipeg and La Crosse ball teams. Fans will make the balance of the parade.

To Circle Diamond

Arriving at the ball park, the band will head the ceremonial march about the diamond, in which the directors, the mayor, the umpire and the players will take part. In front of the grandstand the procession will halt while John A. Elliott, president of the local association and Mayor Sorensen, make brief speeches to the assembled fans. The last of the speech making will be brief; it will be delivered by His Umps, and will be as follows:

"Play Ball!"
The fans will then take a firmer grip on their seats, and the festivities will commence.

The game with the Winnipeg team which has been scheduled for Tuesday afternoon will be played according to schedule, although the formal opening will not take place until Wednesday. At the meeting of the La Crosse association held at the La Crosse Club Saturday night plans for the formal opening were completed.

Malloy for Manager?

Mike Malloy, formerly manager of the Wausau club of the W-I. league, is in the city today and it is rumored that he may be offered the manager's berth for the La Crosse team if the necessary arrangements can be made.

The game on Wednesday will be called at 3:30, which will also be the hour of opening for all week day games. Sunday games will be called at 3:00.

It was thought a few days ago that Weigert would be able to get into Tuesday's game but his ankle is still in a serious condition and he is not expected to be able to get into the game even on Wednesday.

The games with the Winnipeg team will occupy Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and with Superior, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

STOPS BANKRUPTCY CASE

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Proceedings in bankruptcy against the Tennessee Construction company, builder of the Tennessee railroad, were thrown out of the federal court by Judge Mayer here today. He ruled that Referee in Bankruptcy Miller, appointed here three months ago, has no jurisdiction over the affairs of the company, which has liabilities of approximately $7,000,000.

Western creditors asked for the appointment of a receiver alleging that the head offices of the concern were in New York, inasmuch as H. Clay Pierce, a stockholder, who is said to have lost a large amount in the failure, had his office here.

Judge Mayer held since the company was incorporated in Missouri, the bankruptcy petition should have been brought there and refused to accept Miller's report.

GOVERNOR SIGNS WATER POWER BILL

Measure to Give State Control of Big Resources Becomes Law by His Action

"BLUE SKY" LAW ALSO EFFECTIVE

Act Providing for State Regulation of Promoting Schemes Is Signed

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 4.—By signing the waterpower bill late Saturday, Governor McGovern took the last step in the long legislative fight to fix the state's right to control and regulate waterpower development. The enactment opens the way for the ultimate purchase of undeveloped waterpowers by the state. The bill was offered by the special committee on conservation of the senate, Senators Husting, Boshard and Tompkins. Several other bills on the subject were rejected.

Under this law waterpower companies desiring to build dams or other development projects must organize as public utilities, subscribe to the regulations laid down by the state railroad commission, and secure a certificate of convenience and necessity from that body.

Wisconsin has followed several other states in the enactment of a "blue sky" law, Governor McGovern giving the bill his signature. Investment companies or promoters must conform to rigid rules for their regulation to be administered by the commissioner of banking.

Governor McGovern signed the Viebahn bill for an elective county board of education, to have general supervisory power over all public schools within its district. The county superintendent is not superseded by this law, but that official is made accountable to the board for the proper performance of his duties.

The governor also signed the August Dietrich bill changing the barbers' licensing law; the bill requiring railroads to furnish free individual drinking cups on trains; the bill prohibiting the slaying of elk, and the bill for the taxation of state lands in the forest reserve for public school purposes.

SEE END OF DOCTRINE

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Germany today is watching with keenest interest to see how the United States will receive the news that Great Britain intends to enlarge her Bermuda naval base.

"I have heard some time ago that England contemplated such a move," said Count Reventlow, a well known naval authority. "It is my opinion that if England is permitted to take this step, it will sound the death knell of the Monroe doctrine. Other nations may insist on the same right to protect their commerce as is accorded Great Britain. I think the move is attributed partly to the better understanding between Germany and England, which enables England to withdraw a portion of her home fleet."

AVIATOR KILLED

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Herr Brooks, a student aviator, died today, the result of being burned in an explosion at the Johannisthal aerodrome. Brooks was attempting some fancy flying over an enormous crowd, when his motor stopped in midair. He made a desperate effort to avoid the crowd when he came down and succeeded, but the machine was wrecked and when it struck there was an explosion of gasoline.

OSHKOSH MAN TO BECOME PRINCIPAL

D. H. Shepardson to Fill Vacancy Caused by the Death of Professor Donaldson

D. H. Shepardson, principal of the Lincoln school at Oshkosh will fill the vacancy caused by the death last Friday of Principal Nathaniel S. Donaldson, of the Lincoln school here, or the "Third Ward," as generations of Mr. Donaldson's former pupils know it best. This is taken to indicate that the plenipotentiaries expect to reach an agreement within that time.

The position was offered to Mr. Shepardson last week, conditionally upon his being able to procure his release from Oshkosh. He experienced no difficulty in obtaining his freedom to accept the La Crosse offer.

Mr. Shepardson has been principal of the Oshkosh school for five and a half years. He is reputed to be the strongest of the Oshkosh educators. He will be in La Crosse in two weeks.

Mr. Shepardson is a man of big physique, intensely interested in athletics, according to Mr. Benezet. He is married.

COMMERCE COMMISSION ORDERS SWEEPING CUT IN EXPRESS CHARGES

RESIGNATION OF WILSON ACCEPTED

State Department Lets Mexican Ambassador Because of His Actions

TO REVEAL HIS MEXICAN PLAN

President to Make Public Course of the Administration Late Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson's official connection with this government will cease on October 4. A statement issued by the state department this afternoon, announcing the diplomat's resignation, made it clear that Wilson was out of touch with the administration and not considered as the proper person to handle the Mexican situation.

The statement was as follows: "Ambassador Wilson's resignation has been accepted to take effect on October 4. The part which he felt it his duty to take in the earlier stages of the recent revolution in Mexico would make it difficult for him to represent the views of the present administration, in view of the situation which now exists."

"I am still an employee of the department and will be until Oct. 4," said Wilson, "and at the present time I have no statement to make nor have I made any plans. I do not wish to criticize my chief for any action he has taken. Today was the fourth time that I have presented my resignation to the administration."

To Tell Plans.
To end all stories of impending armed intervention in Mexico, President Wilson today prepared to take the public into his confidence. After the president held a conference with Secretary of State Bryan, it was made known in administration circles that the president considers intervention not alone an improbability, but hardly even the remotest possibility. The Mexican situation is clearing up, according to every account received at the White house, and the time has arrived in the opinion of the president when he can at least indicate the first of the successive steps which he will take in aiding the restoration of peace.

The entire plan under consideration provides for a comprehensive suggestion of mediation; further first hand investigation of the causes which have been behind the various Mexican outbreaks, and, possibly, as a final resort, removal of the prohibition against supplying arms to the constitutionalists in the north.

May Modify Plan.
How far the president was prepared to go along this line was not indicated because, it was explained, that between now and the issuance of the statement something might arise to cause a modification of certain features of the plan.

DIG FROM PEN

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 4.—After chipping the cement from between the bricks in the ceiling of their cell with chisels stolen and secreted for that purpose, John Mielenz, 22, and Joseph Paulsen, 23, long term prisoners at the Milwaukee house of correction escaped from the institution early today and are still at large. The men made their escape over the roof and were not seen by the guards. They have at least four hours' start.

PEACE IN SIGHT

BUCHAREST, Aug. 4.—The Balkan peace delegates this afternoon unanimously agreed to a three days' extension of the five days' armistice entered into last week. This is taken to indicate that the plenipotentiaries expect to reach an agreement within that time.

RATES SLASHED FROM TEN UP TO SIXTY PER CENT

New Order in Effect October 15 Will Be Tried for Two Years as an Experiment

TO COMPETE WITH PARCEL POST

Aimed to Cause Direct and Close Competition with the New Mail Service

TO LOWER COST OF LIVING

Rates on Eatables and Drinkables Are 75 Per Cent of Ordinary First Class Tariffs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Sweeping reductions in express rates on parcels all over the country were ordered today by the interstate commerce commission. The new reduced rates become effective October 15. The reductions range from about ten to sixty per cent, relieving shippers from exorbitant charges.

For two years the new rates are to be "experimental" the commission declared. Unless too great loss of revenue results to the express companies they will become permanent.

Ordered First in 1912
The express companies vigorously opposed the rate reductions, first ordered June 8, 1912. The rates were suspended pending further investigation. Today they are finally ordered to go into effect. The companies originally alleged that the new rates would reduce their revenues 30 per cent. Later they said the loss would be 15.33. Despite this opposition, the commission today ordered the two years trial, beginning next October.

The order was the result of a broad investigation of express rates begun over a year ago. It forces direct and close competition between the express companies and the federal parcel post. In many instances the new express rates are much lower than the parcel post rates.

Practically all rates on parcels under 50 pounds are radically lowered. On small packages carried more than 200 miles and less than three thousand miles, the new rates are nearly all lower than the parcel post rates. Over 3,000 miles the express and parcel post service will cost the same.

Reduction of the high cost of living is especially aimed at by the commission in shaving the rates. It orders that rates on articles of food and drink be only 75 per cent of the ordinary first-class rates. Rates on bread, newspapers, and magazines, however, are not materially changed.

That the express companies can, if they will, meet parcel post competition and also conform to the reduced rates is declared by the commission.

Simplify Tariffs

Another radical change is simplification of rate tariffs. Instead of a "Chinese puzzle" of 90,000,000 separate rates, now in vogue, the commission places in effect a "black" or "zone" system of tariffs of less than 650,000 rates for the entire country.

A permanent committee composed of express company representatives and members of the interstate commerce commission to revise express avenues of transportation and eliminate circuitous and befuddling routes is also organized by today's order.

That the express rates shall not be higher in one direction than in another, for carrying parcels between any two points is ordered. Even if two or more carriers participate in such service, the commission declares the rates shall be uniform.

Failure to make rate reductions sooner is explained by the commission as a result of long continued investigations and conferences to avoid doing injustice either to shippers or to the companies. Where the commission and the companies "split" was over the high percentage contracts the companies have with the railroads for carrying express parcels. The companies also contend that parcels post competition would seriously cripple their business and income.

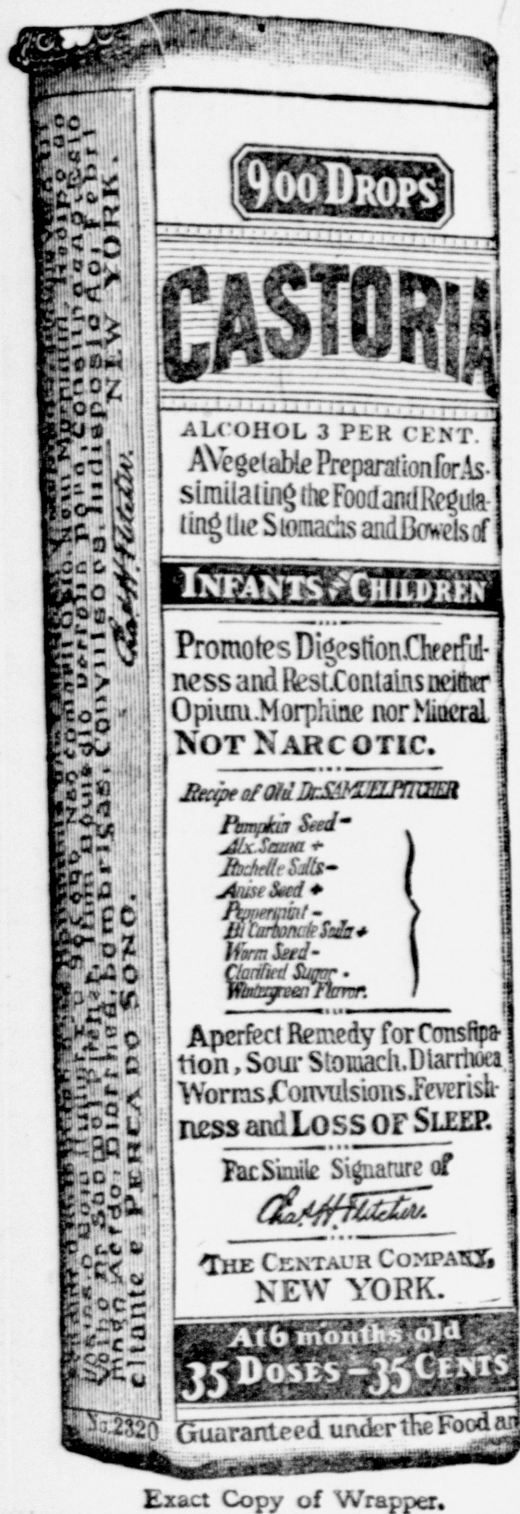

No Ground for High Rates
On these points the commission declared:

"No common ground could be found, owing to the impossibility of

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless! Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J. McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

FAY'S BURGLAR

By IZOLA FORRESTER

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"I tell you the footprints are plainly to be seen. Any one may look at them this minute who doubts my word—"

Fay, wrapped hastily in a sky blue Chinese morning jacket, her fluffy blond hair falling recklessly over her shoulders, confronted the breakfast room group. Benjy went on placidly breaking off California grapes and eating them. Elliston read his morning paper. But the others were instantly aroused and excited. Mrs. Flanders looked grievously and anxiously. It was her house party. Fay was her guest. No really well governed and conducted house party has burglars entering guests' bedrooms.

"Dear child, aren't you nervous? Have some tea and toast."

"Oh, but I don't want tea or toast, Mrs. Flanders. You can see the imprint of his boots right in the window boxes, truly. Come and see. No, not you men. I'm not altogether clothed and in my right mind," she laughed, and hurried upstairs, followed by six of the women.

Elliston looked up cautiously as the last disappeared. "Where are your boots, Ben?"

"Upstairs." Ben did not raise his head.

"I don't see how the deuce—"

"Got mixed on the compass. Thought it was the south side of the house and it was the west."

"What time was it?"

"About two-thirty. We made the run out from New York in twenty minutes. I didn't have a key, and Flanders told me not to waken up the house, for then Mrs. F. would ask where he was. He came along about an hour later. I managed the veranda all right, did the second-story act, went along the roof to what I thought was my window, and well, it wasn't."

"How did you find out it wasn't?"

"I stepped over the window sill, and somebody caught me around the neck—"

"My word, Benjy!" Elliston laughed his round, deep British laugh.

"And I bolted, of course, not expecting it. That's all."

"Fay never told that part, did she?"

"Oh, cut it," growled Benjy. "She is a mighty sweet girl. It's new treatment for a burglar but, after all, you know it did show a lot of pluck and presence of mind. Maybe she didn't intend to embrace me, pinning my arms so to speak—"

"Can't you tell the difference between a strangle hold and a fond embrace?"

"Well, if it was a fond embrace, who did she mean it for? Not for me. I didn't dare look her in the eye a minute ago. It wasn't very fond, I know that. I was a frantic grip."

"Where's Flanders?"

"He left on the early train; ducked, I think, for I told him about it when I heard him come in. I was afraid of an alarm."

He stopped and returned to the grapes as Fay came softly into the room. She was dressed, and rather white.

"Mr. Elliston, I'm sure you won't mind my disturbing you, but I must speak to Mr. Ballister at once and alone."

Benjy gave the Britisher one last helpless look as he bowed and left them together. Fay stood by the table, her hands resting lightly on its edge, her face determined, her eyes bright with what one might have termed plain temper.

"Ben Ballister, will you stand up and turn around?"

He obeyed wretchedly.

"You did not wear that coat last night?"

"No."

"There are marks of powder, tinted powder, on the coat of the man who entered that room. He was seen to creep along the veranda roof, and the person who saw him deliberately put white powder on her hands and marked him for future reference."

"Did she, indeed?" He flared up suddenly and looked down at her snapping hazel eyes. "Then he stands marked—for life, if need be. I didn't mean to climb over your window boxes. I got mixed on which was my room. I wish I had taken you in my arms and carried you out trying to trap me—"

"I didn't," she flushed hotly.

"You did."

Fay suddenly began to laugh, a peal of rippling, mischievous mirth. And down the winding stairs there came trooping the women guests with Mrs. Flanders. Mrs. Flanders was supporting a languid figure draped in silk.

"Boys, a chair for poor Miss Herrington," said Mrs. Flanders, solicitously. "My dear, I shall never forgive myself, never, that this could have occurred in my home. A stool, Benjy, for Miss Herrington's feet."

Benjy obeyed mechanically, then he stood staring at Miss Adelaide Herrington, the famous miniature painter, the only celebrity Mrs. Flanders had managed to capture for her weekend. He knew all about her from Kerry Flanders himself.

Kerry hated this jungle hunting of his wife's after big game, but he was patient.

Fay has turned grave and solemn. Resolutely she refused to meet his eye. Miss Herrington spoke faintly.

"It is nothing, a slight shock,

BURGLARY SCARE SATURDAY NIGHT

Police Kept Busy Chasing Prowlers in Residence District of the City; No Arrests

Two attempts at robbery were made in the city Saturday night, one following close upon the other in point of time and both being thwarted by the prompt action of neighbors in calling the police.

The first attempt was made about midnight, according to the report, at the home of Charles F. Callaway, salesman, 121 South Ninth street. The house is occupied by two families, and the man who resides at 119 South Ninth, in the other half of the apartment, alleges that he saw someone prowling about the premises about 12 o'clock. He sent the call for the police and several patrolmen responded. When they arrived on the scene they surrounded the house in an attempt to capture the burglar. No thief was found.

The second attempt, thwarted in about the same way, was made at the grocery store of A. W. Rennebohm, Eleventh and La Crosse streets, at an early hour Sunday morning.

Late Allendorf was passing the store when he saw a man trying to force an entrance into the building. The man was working between the heavy screen and the front door. He sent word to the police who responded promptly only to find that a second time their quarry had escaped.

nothing more, Stella. If it had not been for Miss Dittmar's courage and kindness I should have died the instant I caught sight of that creeping figure. But I knew she had the room next to mine. I rose from my bed, my hands sprinkled plentifully with powder—face powder, of course, and when the burglar stepped over the sill I seized him and called for help, but he shook me off and escaped. Yet, strange to say, he did not leave willingly. He tried to see my face in the darkness."

"Dear, you make a romance of this tragedy," soothed Mrs. Flanders. "I shall telephone to Kerry and have some detectives sent out at once. There is the print of the shoe plainly in the window box."

Fal slipped out into the garden, and silently Ben followed her.

"I wish you'd stop laughing and talk sensibly," he exclaimed. "How did you know it was I?"

"You dropped a glove on the veranda roof in your exit. I climbed out and got it after I had coaxed her back to bed. She was too much scared to give any alarm, and I said to wait until morning, or we might be shot."

"You knew the glove?" he reached for her hands and pulled her toward him. "You, you old true heart, you. And I'm a stupid, blundering idiot."

"Never mind, Ben," she said, snuggling near him. "As long as you didn't kiss her, I don't care. I knew what had happened. Kerry often uses the veranda supports on his nocturnal home-comings, and you were in evening dress. Burglars don't wear it often. We won't tell. The shock has been really good for Miss Herrington. It's nearest to a romance she may ever come. Brush all the powder off your coat, and tell Kerry to explain things quietly to Stella. And, if you like, I think I could coax a latchkey for you."

"I don't want a latchkey. I want you. Listen, Fay."

Around the corner of the hedge came Elliston, sauntering leisurely. He stared at the picture before him, murmured softly, "My word," and noisily crossed over into the rose garden.

STEAMER STEWARD IRRITATES MORGAN
NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—"I know that is a means of telling persons who are not going to sail that that steamer is about to leave, but how long do you have to keep it up?" exploded J. P. Morgan today when a steward persistently rang a gong near his ears. The steward beat a hasty retreat and Morgan later explained the matter to the chief steward.

Morgan had gone to the pier to see his wife and children off on the steamship Olympic for Europe. They were accompanied by Charles Steele, a member of Morgan & Co., his wife and children.

CASTRO IN GERMANY
LONDON, Aug. 2.—Dispatches received here this afternoon from Teneriff in the Canary Islands denied that Cipriano Castro, stormy petrel of South America, was in Venezuela. The denial came from a member of Castro's family, who declared the deposed Venezuelan president was in Germany, where he was believed to have all plans for and superintend the latest revolutionary disturbance.

ASKS STRIKE AID
CALUMET, Mich., Aug. 4.—C. E. Mahoney, acting president of the Western Federation of Miners, left here today for Denver, where he will issue a call for an immediate conference of the heads of all unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. From them he will ask moral and financial aid for the 15,000 copper mine strikers in Upper Michigan. There was comparative quiet throughout the strike district over Sunday.

There is so much talk and so little said. And also written, it may be added,

ARTIST'S FORMER WIFE INTRODUCES THE LATEST FAD ON NEWPORT BATHING BEACH

Mrs. Henry Hutt.

Mrs. Henry Hutt, the former wife of the well known artist, as she appeared on the beach at Narragansett in her poke bonnet with roses, the latest fad introduced by her, and which the Four Hundred at Newport are rushing to have made for their use on the beach. Mrs. Hutt posed for many of her husband's pictures of beautiful women and was at one time declared by him to be the one American woman who eclipsed Venus in beauty.

CUT OUT PROTECTORATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Shorn of the Bryan protectorate scheme, the Nicaraguan treaty will be favorably reported by the senate foreign relations committee, members announced today. A resolution calling upon the secretary of state to re-draft the measure was approved at a committee meeting today although there was no vote on the specific question of ratifying the protectorate plan itself.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Windows That Are Hard To Break.

Gathering Shells From the Water.

JACK had broken a window playing ball, and, according to his mother's rule, he had to buy a new pane out of his spending money. So Jack was really sorry and meant to be very careful not to play near the house as he had been forbidden to do.

"They don't have glass windows in many houses in the Philippine islands," daddy remarked.

"Their houses must be very dark," Evelyn said.

"Oh, no," daddy disagreed. "The houses are beautifully lighted. They have lovely windows, but you will never guess what they put into the panes."

"They use the shells of little fishes. They take the shells, which are flat and of good size, and polish them until they are transparent. Then the shells are fitted into little frames and placed in the windows."

"These windows are often very pretty in shape. Some of those in the old churches are charming."

"With these there isn't so much danger of the little Filipino children getting into trouble on account of breaking windows, for these shell panes are really quite strong."

"Thousands of the little shells, which the Filipinos call kapas, are gathered together by the fishermen. The shellfish, whose houses they are, live in the water of the ocean around the Philippine islands and are something like oysters, except that they are much flatter. They fasten themselves to a rock or to some other shellfish and sit and dream away their little lives until the net of some fisherman gathers them in, and their little house of shell is torn from their back and polished to make tiny windowpanes."

"In hot countries like the Philippines windows are not really needed. They are perhaps more for show than for use, since for comfort, windows must generally be kept wide open."

"The word window is thought to have come from words meaning 'wind's eye.' The use of windows is really to let air and light into the house."

"At first people had merely rude openings without any sash or windowpanes. In cold countries folks covered the windows with pieces of horn flattened out and made clear enough to allow the light to pass through. Other houses had windows in which parchment or dried sheepskin instead of horn was used. Of course this parchment was clear, although the people inside could not see through it as we can through our panes of glass."

"After awhile glass came into use. The windows of churches are made of colored glass, but shell windows are the oddest of all."

CHILI MAKES A SOUND PROPOSAL

No more effective means of fostering and cementing friendship between this country and the Latin-American countries has been suggested than that outlined by the Chilean minister of foreign affairs and outlined to the state department at Washington in information sent by Minister Fletcher at Santiago. It is the proposal of the Chilean government to send Chilean youths to this country to complete their education along practical and technical lines, their government to pay the expenses of transportation each way.

Mr. Fletcher says that the proposal was formally made to Col. Henry L. Kincaids, president of the delegation of the Boston Chamber of Commerce that recently visited Chile and other South American countries. In his report, Minister Fletcher says: "These youths after returning to Chile will be without doubt the best friends of the United States and at the same time many of them might become the most satisfactory agents or representatives in this country of those firms in whose employ they become men of business in their respective lines, being able to contribute thus in return to the extension of the ideas, practices and commerce of the United States."

The last few years has seen a remarkable change in the attitude of commercial concerns in this country toward the Latin-American countries. They have discovered that there is a field for trade expansion to the south of us far greater than the field that Europe offers. They have discovered too, that their contemporaries in European countries have been ahead of them in recognizing the advantages of South and Central American trade and have gained a foothold that is proving a serious handicap to the Yankee trader.

The difficulties are intensified through the blind manner in which concerns in this country attempted to break into the field to the south, and without attempting to study conditions there. They created a prejudice against the United States, its products and its methods that is working to the advantage of European commerce. With the aid of the consular service, the United States government is seeking to overcome all this and commercial concerns are co-operating with the government to the extent that their knowledge of Latin-America will permit them, which is not very great.

It is an excellent idea, therefore, to bring the students of these countries to our own institutions, not only to send them back as friends and representatives of the commerce of the United States, but to keep some of them here, after their educations have been completed, to assist our commercial institutions in properly handling the business that they are now seeking to secure. It would be to the advantage of our government to co-operate with the government of Chile in bringing about such an arrangement as Minister Fletcher outlines and to seek to make similar arrangements with all countries to the south of us.

ELIMINATING ARMY POLITICS

A year or two ago the magazines were greatly agitated over the question, "What's the matter with the army?" Officers of high rank, retired secretaries and others, contributed to the controversy. Everybody seemed agreed that "something was wrong." Perhaps a recent order issued by Secretary of War Garrison may help explain a part of the trouble. Mr. Garrison has undertaken to stop politicians from meddling with affairs of the army, and to this end he has prohibited the employment of political aid in behalf of army officers for assignment to duty or for appointment to higher positions.

Every employee of a business concern has, perhaps, actual acquaintance with that mysterious force known as "office politics." To those unacquainted with its operation it may be explained as the exercise of "pull" nurtured by ambition and petty jealousy. What "office politics" is to the office force "promotion politics" is to the army. And there is scarcely an army officer or a man in official life at Washington but has an idea of the operation of politics in the army. It has in the past been no uncommon thing for the war department to incline a kindly ear to the solicitations of senators and congressmen in behalf of some one in the service. Some gross mispromotions have resulted—as the army records bear witness.

Secretary Garrison has denounced this "You tickle me and I will tickle you" policy. It should have been exposed long ago, not only for "the good of the service," but for the good of politics in its truer sense and the good of government. One can scarcely imagine a more corrupting influence in the army than the exercise of a political pull. And yet this is what has been practiced in not a few instances in the past. Political pull in the army invited inefficiency, and often when such pull exists the larger the army the more marked the inefficiency. Indeed, the political interference with assignments and promotions discounts merit and makes demoralization inevitable. Our standing army is said to be pitifully small, in comparison with other countries. But aside from mere size, soundness and discipline count.

THUS FALL ALL THE STRAW MEN OF PRIVILEGE

Students of the tariff debate cannot afford to overlook a brief but compelling editorial which has just come to The Tribune in the form of a clipping, mailed anonymously, without the name of the paper to which credit should be given:

"The Dingley Tariff Act was passed sixteen years ago this summer and the Payne-Aldrich Act changed it very little. Since that time our exports have risen from one billion dollars to two and half billions; but exports of foodstuffs—whether crude or wholly or partly prepared for use—have actually decreased. Of manufactures—excluding wholly or partly manufactured foodstuffs—we exported three hundred and ten million dollars' worth sixteen years ago; but in the fiscal year just closed we exported decidedly more than a billion dollars' worth.

"In the first year of the Dingley Law foodstuffs amounted almost to one-half our total exports. Last year they amounted to less than one-fifth. In 1897 manufactures were but little over one-quarter of total exports; they are now almost one-half. In exports of manufactures since 1900 the United States has gained one hundred and ten per cent, Germany eighty-seven per cent, France seventy-one per cent, Great Britain sixty-nine per cent. All the other countries pay much lower wages than we do, yet in relative gains we decidedly beat any of them. Our exports of manufactures to Europe have almost doubled in eight years. We are selling the countries of North and South America practically three times as much manufactures as we did eight years ago.

"These immense gains in exports of manufactures have been made under wide-open competition with every other country. We pay higher wages, meet all comers on an even footing and pay the freight besides. In view of which the cry that a reduction of duties from the present forty per cent level to about thirty per cent will ruin manufacturing in this country seems excessively absurd."

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Standby

There are times when we find in this vale of sorrow

A person whose soul is shown white by his acts—

A person to whom everyone comes to borrow;

Who goes about patting depressed on their backs.

Who suffers, but hides all his suffering bravely

Lest others be hurt, and who smiles right along,

But sobers and helps the unfortunate gravely

When all the world seems to be moving wrong.

For people like this there's a passport to Heaven:

They don't realize it, but other folks do:

Their sweetness of heart operates as a heaven

To life a sad world from its channels of blue

And make it far brighter and sweeter to live in—

To make a man know his God is his friend,

For to him his everyday sins are forgiven

And he'll have a place when his earth life shall end.

Couldn't Fool the Officer

It is a serious offense for a German soldier to appear in public except in uniform. Even when he is on furlough he must always wear it.

A certain Lieutenant Schmidt who was engaged in some adventure or other, dressed up as a civilian, was having a fine time of it when, on turning a corner he unexpectedly met his colonel.

Lieutenant Schmidt, however, did not lose his presence of mind, but in a changed voice said:

"Can you tell me sir, where Lieutenant Schmidt lives? I am his brother from the country, and am paying him a visit."

The colonel gave the desired information, and Lieutenant Schmidt hurried home and got into uniform as soon as possible. He thought he had deceived his superior officer, but next day when he met the colonel the latter said:

"Lieutenant Schmidt, if your brother from the country pays you another visit I'll have him placed in close confinement for thirty days."

After Full Value

A boy went into a shop to buy a cents worth of nuts. The man at the counter, a cheery, good natured soul, said to him:

"You can have them mixed if you like."

"All right," said the boy, "you may put one or two cocoanuts in if you please."

Unintelligible Prayers

McCarthy got into an argument with Casey about the efficacy of prayer.

"OI can't see that there's anything in it," asserted Casey. "OI never got anything out of it."

"Well," said McCarthy, "don't you know when there's a war it's always the people that pray that wins the fights?"

"How about the Chinese?" asked Casey. "They're great people to pray, and yet they get licked, and licked bad."

"Oh, well," explained McCarthy, "no war could understand them when they prayed."

Well Named

The late Stephen Dudley Field, the father of the trolley car and the stock ticker," said a Stockbridge man, "was a modest soul. He imputed some of his best inventions to blind and ignorant bungling."

"At a dinner, in acknowledgement of a high-flown compliment, he once declared that if he often hit on the truth, he hit on it as accidentally almost as Mrs. Malaprop."

"Mrs. Malaprop," he explained, was telling a friend how, at Bath Beach, the rehearsals, by an amateur cast, of 'Sappho,' had led to three divorce suits in the cottage colony."

"Yes, yes," Mrs. Malaprop concluded, "I always said I knew no good would come of them amatory theatricals."

TESTED AND PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months La Crosse readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit?

Mrs. T. Bramwell, 304 N. Eleventh St., La Crosse, Wis., says: "In 1907 I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and at this time I am pleased to confirm that statement. Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in our family and have never failed to bring relief from troubles caused by weak kidneys."

"When Your Back is Lame—Remember the Name." Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Bramwell had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Good Time Now for Blood Health

Warm Days and Proper Help do Wonders for the Blood.

A few doses of that wonderful blood purifier, S. S. S., will start activities in the cellular tissues of the body and soon show decided changes in the skin. The skin is but a fine network of tiny blood vessels, and the specific action of S. S. S. is declared to be a pronounced stimulation of the activity of these cells. Certain it is that in a surprisingly short time any skin eruption shows a most remarkable change; it begins to dry up; the skin scales off in tiny flecks, and soon a layer of clear, healthy and firm tissue results.

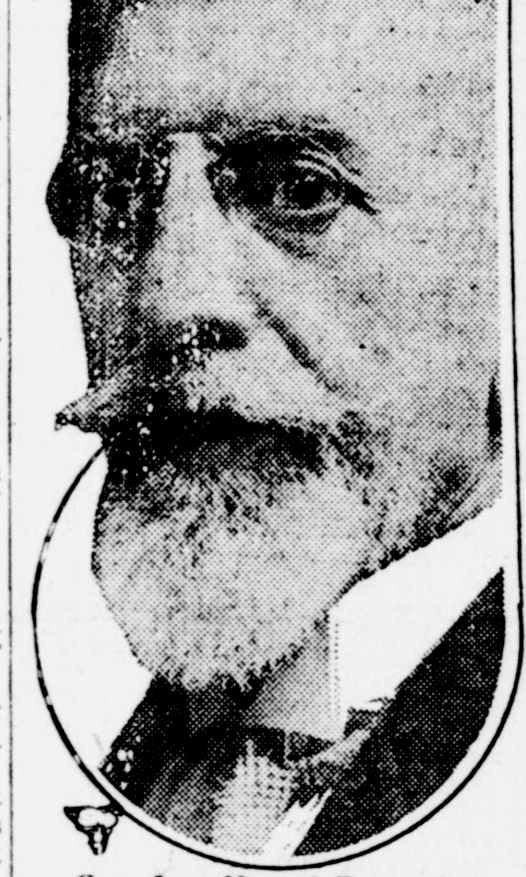

The reason for this is in the peculiar stimulation of S. S. S., which enables the cells in the skin to select from the blood the nutriment it requires for regeneration.

This fact has been demonstrated year in and year out in a wonderful number of cases of severe skin diseases that had seemed to be incurable.

You can obtain S. S. S. at any well stocked drug store, if you insist upon it, but be sure you are not talked into something "just as good."

S. S. S. is prepared by the Swift Specific Co., 180 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Write for their illustrated book on skin diseases.

PLANS REVOLUTION TO DESTROY GOMEZ?

Gen. Jose Manuel Hernandez

Gen. Jose Manuel Hernandez, leader of the National Liberal party in Venezuela, now a political exile in this country, is bitterly opposed to both General Castro and the present Gomez government in Venezuela. He is believed to be awaiting an opportunity to lead a revolution of his own party against President Gomez.

Not Satisfying

Secretary of Commerce Redfield, apropos of his purpose to investigate such firms as reduce salaries on account of the new tariff, said at a luncheon at Chevy Chase:

"It won't be very comforting to one who has voted for a lower tariff to find that in consequence 10 or 20 per cent is cut from his wages. And the explanation given him—lower tariff, lower pay—will be about as satisfactory as the quack doctor's."

"A boy who worked for a butcher, was engaged by a quack doctor at the same wages—$5 a week and a ten pound roast every Saturday night. The roast was computed as worth $2 extra."

"The boy's first week passed quickly in his new job, which consisted of filling pint and quart bottles with liver cure, and on Saturday evening the boss handed him a $5 bill."

"Here, doc, how about this?" said the boy. "You're $2 short."

"You only got $5 at the butcher's," snapped the doctor.

"I know, doc, but there was a ten-pound roast, worth $2, thrown in."

"Well," said the doctor, "since that's the case, I don't mind throwing in a couple of $1 bottles of liver cure."

For Keeps

"Come, Willie," said his mother, "don't be so selfish. Let your little brother play with your marbles a while."

"But," protested Willie, "he means to keep them always."

"Oh, I think not."

"I say, 'Yes,' 'cause he's swallowed two o' them already."

A Co-operative Car

"Well, Bildad," said Jimsonberry, "I suppose, now that you are living out in the country, you have a car."

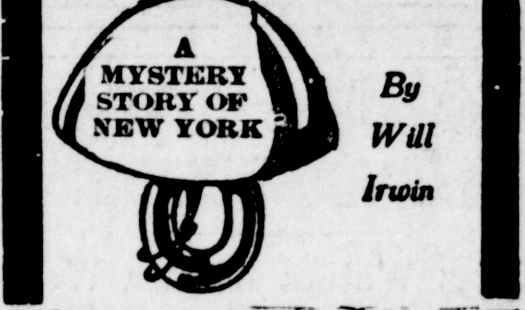

"Yes," said Bildad. "That is, my neighbors and I have one together."

"Really," said Jimsonberry. "Co-operative arrangement, eh? Not a bad idea. What make is it?"

"Oh, just plain trolley," Judge.

Even an empty head may contain a lot of information.

THE RED BUTTON

"Miguel Perez was this man's father—if the stool-pigeon is right in his identification. The stool-pigeon was down there about three or four years ago. At that time, Miguel Perez had just died, and this Juan had inherited the business. It seemed that he wasn't getting on well with it. At least, that was the gossip. That's all—oh, yes, the stool-pigeon remembered one other thing about Miguel Perez. He'd had an early romance with an English girl—navy people. Miguel Perez married her, and she didn't live very long. After that, he married again—a Spanish girl from Caracas—and Juan Perez was the son of that marriage. That was about all he could remember."

"But still, the camera marked Port of Spain, seems to fix it, somehow."

"It seems to. But, of course, you can't be certain. He may be a relative and have a family resemblance."

"Your friend didn't know whether old Miguel Perez had any children by his first marriage—to the English girl?"

"He didn't say, at least."

Rosalie congealed to a pose with the advent of an idea.

"Tell me," she asked, "when a father and a mother are of different nationalities—talk different languages—what language does the baby learn first—the father's or the mother's?"

"Oh, the mother's—always."

"So if there was a child from his first marriage—to the English girl—he'd talk better English than Juan Perez?"

"He'd pronounce it better, anyway. There's no reason why, with such a start, a child brought up in Port of Spain, which is an English possession, shouldn't speak as good English as—here Grimaldi was about to say 'as you,' but sense of truth restrained him—as anybody," he concluded.

"And a mother always talks to her baby in her own language."

"Oh, of course."

"An' if any foreigner—you, for instance—gits real excited an' talks quick, what language does he use?"

"Oh, his own first tongue! When I'm really angry, I always begin to swear in Piedmont dialect."

Rosalie mused aloud; and in that musing she cleared up for us one of her mysteries of method.

"It does look to me," she said, "as if I'd wasted a lot of time brushin' up my Spanish with the Martinez Phonograph Method. Still, it's bound to help here and there. Listen," she addressed Grimaldi, "I did a turn once—never mind what—on the Mexican border—El Paso, San Antonio, an' places like that. Circumstances was such that I had to learn as much Spanish as I could my business called for it. I've been studyin' it again lately. You understand Spanish, don't you?"

"As well as I do English."

"Then," said Rosalie in Spanish, "how does this sound? Is it good conversational Spanish? Tell me what you think."

"Well," said Grimaldi, "it runs all right, but any one who would know you weren't Spanish born. Still, it's pretty good, and I suppose you could fool a Spaniard for a few words. What are you trying to do—with Spanish?"

"Oh, nothing," replied Rosalie carelessly. "Well, I must go on. Keep him shadowed, an' when you git anything new, you know where to find me. Good-by."

At home in her own room again, Rosalie pondered long, a nervous finger picking at a musing lip—pondered until she stood frozen with a new idea. Those rings of Miss Estrilla's—she had long wanted a look at them. Especially that big diamond with a curious onyx and gold setting which she wore on her left hand. The forgotten visiting-cards in wraps laid aside at the door; the initials on a bag; the posy in a ring—by slight clues like these she had found the way to old roads of the mind in all her years of professional endeavor. Rosalie had noted Miss Estrilla's care of that ring; noted how she washed her hands without removing it. Chance, therefore, would never give the opportunity. She herself must make it. She meditated. Again her finger stopped its drumming on her hip, and she congealed to a pose.

"Molly," she was saying to the maid half an hour later, "I guess I'll take up Miss Estrilla's dinner tonight." As though by an afterthought, she picked up a late edition of an evening newspaper and laid it on the edge of the tray.

"I've brought your dinner myself," she said to Miss Estrilla. She put down the tray, adjusted the napkin, bolstered the invalid with the pillows, and took up a cup of bouillon.

"There now, I'll help—oh, dearie, I'm so sorry!" For Rosalie had stumbled slightly in approaching the couch, and the bouillon had splashed over the napkin, the spread, and Miss Estrilla's hands. Rosalie bubbled apologies as she hurried about the room, getting cloth, towels, warm water. Miss Estrilla was very gracious, but Rosalie continued to apologize as she began to scrub her hands.

"Didn't burn you, did it?" asked Rosalie.

"No; but it's very sticky," replied Miss Estrilla.

"I can't get under those rings—let me—there, my dear." Rosalie deftly removed the rings, laid them

MAY DIE FOR NOT WAITING ON TABLE

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Miss Lillian Clarkson, 20, a pretty stenographer, who shipped as a waitress aboard the steamer North America for a summer vacation lark, was held to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Foote on a technical charge of "mutiny on the high seas."

Returning from Duluth, Miss Clarkson refused to double her work and serve the table of another waitress who was sick. She was officially declared mutinous by the captain and placed in a dark room in the hold until the ship reached Chicago, where formal charges were placed against her. Members of the crew smuggled food to her. The federal statutes make no provision for mutiny on the lakes and Miss Clarkson may be "punished with death, or put in jail for 20 years." She is at liberty under bond.

HUNDREDS ATTEND
SYRIANS' WEDDING

Miss Watika Kabara Weds
Maged J. Raskid Before
Gathering of 600 Guests

The wedding of Maged J. Raskid and Miss Watika Kabara, members of the north side Syrian colony who were married yesterday afternoon in Our Lady of Lourdes Syrian Catholic church, was one of the largest on the north side for some time. Over 600 persons attended. Guests came from different parts of the country to attend. The couple left the city this noon for Chicago where they will spend a short honeymoon. They were accompanied by Miss Mary Salmons, sister of the pastor of the church.

HORSE GOES THROUGH
MACADAM PAVING

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 4.—Saturday as one of the teams of D. Hemstock was being driven on West Main street in front of the city hall, one of the horses broke through the macadam pavement and although he got out alright and without injury, he opened up a hole or cave of cave of goodly proportions immediately under the shell of the macadam pavement. Later in the day there were unconfirmed rumors that other cave-ins of this nature have been discovered on outlying streets, although nothing is known of their truthfulness.

The street force, assisted by N. F. Palen's workmen, is at work on the West Main street hole and the cause of the cave-in will probably be known when they get farther into the job. Chief of Police Waring is of the opinion that it is due to the work of great wharf rats which are very numerous and a great source of trouble to local merchants and others in the block extending along Water street from Main to Oak streets. There is a large sewer that goes down the center of Main street and the chief thinks that the rats have worked around this sewer and caused the damage.

Another theory is that there was a small hole in the sewer and that the sand has gradually sifted in and caved away from the macadam crust until it left this large hole or cave. If these holes prove to be frequent, they will be a source of great expense to the city and a source of great annoyance.

Firm Dissolves.
Saturday the firm of McOmber & Johnson on East Oak street dissolved. Mr. Charles Johnson retiring and Mr. Roy McOmber continuing the business. Mr. Johnson will remove with his family to Austin, Minn., where his wife, Mrs. Blanche Johnson, is engaged as instructor in cratory in the Southern Minnesota University. Mr. Johnson also has employment in that city and the prospects are for the success of both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

Favors Sewer.
Alderman Smith of the sewer committee announces that he will report to the council in favor of the

COSTUME OF RED
FLOWERED CREPE

This costume of red flowered crepe is made with the coat effect. The revers end beneath a belt which is at the front only. This belt ends beneath the sides of the bodice, which extend on to the skirt to hip length and are finished by white net frilling. The back falls straight onto the skirt, giving the appearance of a bolero coat and is also edged with frilling. The foundation skirt is plaited at the front only. The tunic is crossed at the front, where it is laid in folds beneath the belt and ends beneath a plaited panel at the back.

construction of what is known as the American Cigar company's sewer, which extends from the cigar company's plant near the Northwestern depot up South Water street and into the La Crosse river, and also for the construction of a large sewer on L street between Central avenue and Main street.

Local Briefs.
Miss E. May Rice has returned from a two weeks' camping party at Spring Bank.

The coming of the circus interrupted the vacation of George Dryer, which he was spending with his parents near Waukesha and required his return to the Dodge & Davis store.

The regular monthly meeting of the council will occur Tuesday evening.

A convention of the Franciscan sisters of this territory, who teach music, has recently been concluded at the local convent.

Mrs. E. A. Seidel went to Cash-ton Saturday to attend the funeral of John Klinkner.

The merry-go-round has moved to Reedsburg, where it is attracted by the fair next week.

A. W. Smith and Dr. S. A. Butler have received a racing mare which they purchased in northern Illinois some days ago and are training her at the local race track.

George Johnson has his horse entered at the Reedsburg fair next week.

The storms of the past week have raised hob with telephone lines in this vicinity. Telephones out of order was the complaint, much of the trouble extending up to Saturday.

The hearing of the complaint of Mayor McMillan for a new depot at the Northwestern station in our city, will be heard at the city hall on the 12th of August.

Frank Bredlow was up from Norwalk Wednesday.

Editor A. R. McCleneghan of Kendall, attended the circus Thursday evening.

J. B. Kerrigan and G. F. Halderman of Norwalk were in the city on Friday.

The United States senate confirmed the appointment of John P. Rice of the Monroe County Democrat, to be postmaster at Sparta, on Wednesday afternoon. He will succeed Mr. F. A. Brandt, who has been connected with the post office of this city in one capacity and another for a period of some twenty-two years.

Peter Lutz, a local character, boarded with Mrs. James Richards, proprietress of the Little Boston Eating house, which grows out of the side of the Knudson building on Oak street. Pete quit boarding and didn't pay his bill. Later he went to work for W. T. Jackson who came from Wilton and didn't know Pete. Pete has two children who are cared for by old man Armstrong on South K street. Mrs. Richards sued Pete in Justice O. J. Jackson's court and garnished W. T. Jackson. Jackson, garnishee, appeared and told Justice Jackson that Lutz had $4.00 or thereabouts in wages due. Mrs. Richards appeared and told the court that Lutz owed her $5.00 or thereabouts; Lutz appeared and told the court that it was true, he had money coming, but that he wanted that money to pay for food and clothing for his children, who stayed with old man Armstrong. Then someone said he did-

FOUR KILLED IN
HOP STRIKE RIOT

California Militia Called Out as Result of Death of District Attorney and Three Others

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 4.—Martial law was declared at Wheatland today by Adjutant General Forbes following a night of terror resulting from the riots yesterday among the striking hop pickers during which four persons were killed including District Attorney E. T. Maxwell, and six seriously injured. The adjutant general with five companies of state infantry and one troop of cavalry reached Wheatland at 2 o'clock this morning, and took control of the situation.

The situation was extremely critical today and it was understood fifty automobile loads of irate citizens from surrounding towns were congregated to go to Wheatland to oppose the strikers. All available deputies and police of nearby points were asked to hurry to Wheatland.

The trouble with a strike meeting of hop pickers who demanded an increase in wages. Officers tried to arrest several speakers and I. W. W. leaders prompted resistance.

CHANGE 58'S TIME

On account of a shortage in time over the La Crosse division of the Burlington railroad a change in the time of passenger train No. 58 was made effective last night. Instead of arriving here at 10:26 in the evening as formerly the train will arrive from the west twenty-five minutes later.

Boiling Vegetables.

Food experts long ago pointed out the very small quantity of mineral matter and bone building material in succulent vegetables. Now a household expert and food scientist has found that when such vegetables as spinach, cabbage and carrots are boiled they lose about half of the small amount of mineral constituents which they contain. Spinach, for example, gave up more than 50 per cent of its mineral constituents and cabbage 40 per cent. As the loss of mineral matter in these foods makes them less nutritious, the problem of retaining these mineral parts of the food assumes some importance.—Farm and Fireside.

Sawdust as a Fire Extinguisher.

Every one knows how hard it is to extinguish a fire of certain inflammable liquids, such as varnish, lacquer and gasoline. People generally use sand, but some one lately discovered that sawdust is better. In several trials even a thin layer of sawdust proved to be sufficient, and it did not make any difference whether the sawdust was wet or dry or from hard wood or soft wood. To put out the same fire with sand took a larger quantity of material and a longer time.—Exchange.

One For the Lawyer.

A lawyer the other day in a London police court was cross examining a woman who was evidently a match for any man while her husband, obviously the weaker vessel, sat sheepishly listening. The lawyer was pressing a question urgently when she indignantly remarked: "You needn't think to catch me. You tried that once before." "Madam," replied the counsel, "I haven't the least desire to catch you, and your husband looks as if he was sorry he did."

Farm Hands in Germany.

Germany has more than 65,000,000 people living in area less than that of Texas and only five times as great as that of Ohio, but nevertheless labor is so scarce in harvest time in many parts of the German empire that about 30,000 farm hands, as the American phrase is, go into Germany from Russia and Austria-Hungary every year to help gather the crops.

n't care for the children very well and this statement seemed to have been founded on fact. Mrs. Richards said she did not think the law would make her board Lutz free of charge even if he did have children and she seemed to have the sympathy of the crowd. It was a no decision bout, so far as we can learn. Justice Jackson is still figuring out the case and hopes to get a decision out of his system by Tuesday morning at the latest.

Sheriff Vieth and Undersheriff George Boss may have acted and seemed to be a good bit dizzy the past week, but it is due to nothing they had been drinking. The fact is that the two representatives of the law had a merry-go-round, that has been operating on South Water street since the Fourth, on their hands, which is enough to make any two men dizzy. The owner of the plant discharged his engineer and refused to pay him. The engineer commenced attachment proceedings before Justice Lamson and the sheriff and the undersheriff took charge of the merry-go-round. Then just as they were getting their sea legs, the owner paid up and took back his bunch of dizziness.

Joe Melcher and his son are at their camp on the river near the Schlaver place.

Miss Grace Reed and Miss Doris Richards are spending the week end with Miss Kathryn Howes at Tomah.

The Misses Mabel Talbot, Elsie Jerrison and Ruth Enckhausen were La Crosse shoppers Friday.

NORTH LA CROSSE
BEATS LA CRESCENT

The North La Crosse baseball team defeated the La Crescent team yesterday afternoon by a score of 12 to 3. A feature of the game was the slugging of Bollrud and the pitching of Ritter, who fanned out twelve men. Scores: R H E North La Crosse 12 16 1 La Crescent 3 3 1 Batteries—North La Crosse, Ritter and Grosskop; La Crescent, Gettens and Smith.

STOCK FARM BURNS

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Fire caused a $30,000 loss today at the Dunham Stock farm, famed throughout the middle west. Volunteers from the nearby town of Wayne, Ill., saved several buildings from destruction.

SULZER FIGHTS TO BLOCK FUND PROBE

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—With the probe into the Governor Sulzer campaign funds scheduled to be resumed Wednesday, both the Tammany forces and friends of the governor were today preparing for a fight to the finish. It is considered certain here that Sulzer will carry his fight to prevent an investigation by the Frawley committee to the courts, when the committee makes its first move to force Louis A. Sarecky, the governor's confidential agent, to reveal information he is said to have. Rumors that an attempt will be made to impeach the governor should he fall in his direct primary campaign this fall, continue to grow.

LIFE SAVERS BUSY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 4.—Sunday was a busy day for the local life-saving crew. Twelve persons were saved from drowning and the occupants of one canoe were saved twice.

Some Persons
"Flinch"
When Truth
Hunts Them

"If any man is able to convince me and show me that I do not think or act right, I will gladly change, for I seek the truth, by which no man was ever injured."—Marcus Aurelius, Roman Emperor.

Some shrink and try to close their eyes and ears to the haunting fact that the little 2½ grains of Caffeine in every average cup of coffee is the demon which relentlessly pursues a n d starts various ailments, such as biliousness, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, bowel trouble, heart failure and a long string of aches and ills, taking one form in one person and another in another.

The effect of repeated doses of coffee, on those who are susceptible to caffeine poisoning, is so complex that it is difficult to foretell where its hurt will be most serious; in Heart, Head, Eyes, Nerves or where.

The stroke of trouble will come somewhere if the daily doses are persisted in.

Of course if anyone prefers to treat his body in that way it is useless to suggest relief.

Let him "follow the trail" until badly wounded.

Some go so far they can't get back to health. Others quit the foolish, losing game before fixed chronic disease sets in.

There is a mighty army of sensible ones, however, who have bravely tested the truth with their own bodies to see whether or not it was the truth that coffee caused their ailments.

It's an easy test. Quit coffee absolutely for 10 days. Take Postum hot and well-made and keep track of the change toward health day by day.

It's the most exquisite pleasure in the world to be perfectly well with all the delicate and beautifully adjusted machinery of the body working in harmony, not interfered with by drugs, one of the most insidious and deceptive of which is caffeine in coffee.

This is Truth.

Meet it bravely with head up and a hearty handclasp.

Truth thus made welcome will prove your best friend.

These are facts without regard to our own opinion, or to whether or not you use Postum.

However it is well to consider that famous food-drink because it supplies a hot beverage of the deep seal-brown color of coffee, which turns to the rich golden-brown when cream is added.

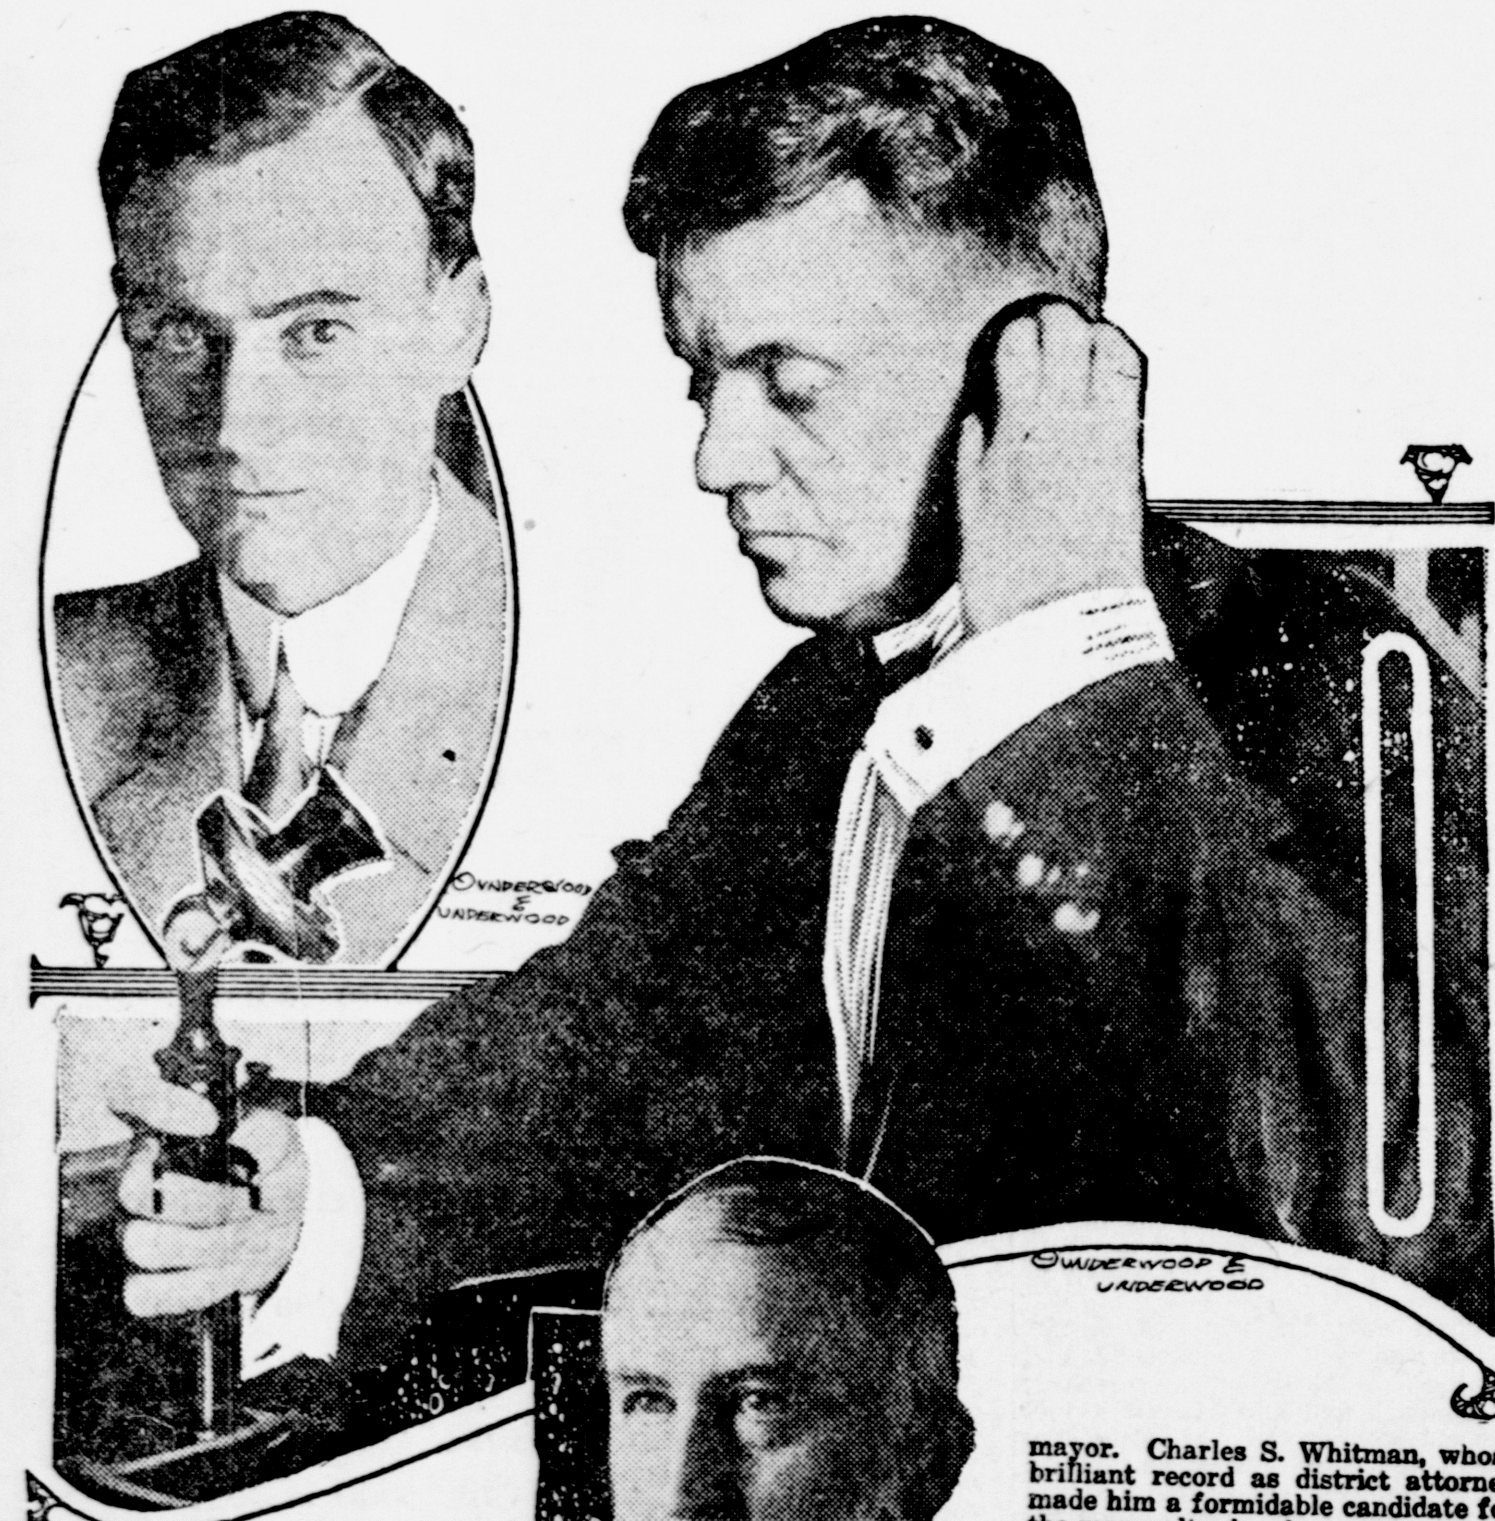

It has a snappy flavor much like the old-time real Java, but there is no "sting" in it, no caffeine or other drug of any sort. It is skilfully manufactured of wheat and a trace of New Orleans molasses.

It comes in two forms. One called Regular Postum, must be boiled full 15 minutes.

The other, Instant Postum, is in powder form and a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water makes the beverage instantly. Grocers keep both kinds.

Mitchel and Whitman Big Figures in New York Fight Against Tammany; Reformers to Make United Stand

John Purroy Mitchel (upper left), District Attorney Whitman and Mayor Gaynor (bottom).

One of the biggest fights ever waged against Tammany Hall is now impending in New York city. Republicans, Progressives and the anti-Tammany wing of the Democratic party are solidly behind the candidacy of John Purroy Mitchel for mayor. Charles S. Whitman, whose brilliant record as district attorney made him a formidable candidate for the mayoralty, has been renominated for his present position. The ticket named with Mitchel also carries with it the renomination of McAneny as president of the borough of Manhattan and W. A. Prendergast as president of the board of aldermen. The Tammany candidate for the mayoralty in all likelihood will be William J. Gaynor, whose four-year term as a Tammany mayor will close this year.

WOMAN TOSSED BY ANGRY COW

Following several attempts to milk a cow on her farm in Bostwick
Valley a few days ago, Mrs. Christ Oertel was thrown a distance of ten feet onto a picket fence, fracturing her right wrist.

Mrs. Oertel had been helping in the evening's milking on the farm.
The cow which threw her was one that had been in the herd of milking cows all summer.

The cow kicked over the milk pail and Mrs. Oertel gave up trying to milk her and was about to go to another. She was in front of the animal when it lowered its head and charged.

DELAVAN SCHOOL TEACHES THE DEAF

Are you interested in any deaf child?

If so, write to Supt. E. W. Walker, of the State School for the Deaf,
Delavan, Wis.

This school teaches speech and lip reading, has the same course that is given to hearing children in the public schools and in addition gives instruction in various trades.

The children are well cared for in every way. Medical attendance is furnished and an eye and ear specialist is provided, all to the end that the children may develop the brightest intellect, the soundest morals and the highest efficiency possible. This school is supported by the state. Everything is furnished free to the deaf boys and girls of Wisconsin. The next term begins
Sept. 10.

HERMIT STARVES WITH HOARD NEAR

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 4.—"The Black Hermit of Lloyd street," reputed to be worth $50,000, the bogey man in the neighborhood of Fourth and Lloyd streets, was found almost starved to death Friday in the basement of an old two-story shack at 415 Lloyd street, where he has lived for ten years, repelling all advances of neighbors.

His name is Michael Schultz. He is 65 years old. He has relatives here, say the neighbors, who are well-to-do. He has refused to live with any of them, although they have repeatedly sought to have him leave "The Cave," as his home is known in the neighborhood.

The police found $365 buried in a corner of the basement. It is rumored he has other money hidden in the cellar.

Maximilian and "La Paloma."

Whenever that haunting air, "La Paloma," is played the memory of the Emperor Maximilian, shot by the Mexicans on June 19, 1867, should be preserved. Maximilian's final request was that "La Paloma" should be played while he stood up to meet his doom.
He died with the tune in his ears, and his wife went mad with the shock of his execution.

The Last Old Joke.

A popular humorist on his deathbed called his son to him and said:

"My son, I can't leave you any money for my money I spent as fast as it came in. I can't leave you any fame, for fame cannot be shared. But there's an heirloom I can and will leave you, an heirloom handed down from my great grandfather to my father and thence to me, and this heirloom, properly utilized, will keep you in affluence and honor, my son, even as it has kept me and my forebears these many generations."

So saying, the humorist placed in the young man's hands a worn eaten and dog eared copy of "Joe Miller's Joke Book" and passed quietly away.

gress for two years.

An out-of-door class for girls between the ages of 11 and 15 years is to be a feature of the educational work at Bryn-Mawr college during the coming year. The plan is being arranged by President M. Carey Thomas with a view to determining the value of outdoor classes in the mental and physical development of normal children, since the outdoor work has proved so valuable in strengthening and advancing weak and backward children.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association, will address the Nebraska
State Teachers' association in Omaha, at the annual meeting in Octo-

FIGHT TO PRAY FOR PANKHURST

Band of Militants in St.
Paul's Halt Services to Chant Prayer for Leader

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The crowd that attended today's weekly meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union at the London Pavilion was unusually large, the women evidently hoping that Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst would appear again as she did last Monday, when Miss Annie Kenney was re-arrested.

Steps were taken today to guard all the big churches in England, to prevent if possible a repetition of yesterday's suffragette incident at St. Paul's. Thirty or forty militants, evidently well rehearsed in their parts and thoroughly familiar with the church service, broke in after a chant and sang a plea for Mrs. Pankhurst. Following the same music that the congregation had just used, the women intoned their chant for the leader over and over, interrupting the service for several minutes.

The chant follows:
"Save Emmeline Pankhurst.
"Spare her light and set her free.
"Give her light and set her free.
"Save her. Save her.
"Hear us while we pray to Thee."
When the women refused to quit chanting, they were ejected from the church. It was the first time since the outbreak of militancy that St. Paul's was not under police guard. Today the police were put back, and every large church is under police surveillance.

probably pushed to King street and the wild trip started. The coil plug was not in the car and when found a nail had been substituted.

Mr. Gantert this morning admitted that he had an idea as to the identity of the car thieves but declined to give out any names maintaining that the party was under suspicion had left town immediately after the accident. The police mention the name of the young man believed to have driven the car but the identification is not positive.

The auto, a large touring car, was not damaged.

WATSON IS ANGRY AT LOBBY PROBE

Declares Senators Have Formed Judgment with
No Hearing of N. A. M.
Side of Case

REFUSES TO APPEAR HIMSELF

Says It Would Be of No
Avail to Attempt to Refute Mul-hall

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Democratic majority members of the lobby investigating committee were accused today of having prejudged a verdict of guilty against the National Association of Manufacturers an congressman mentioned in the Mulhall letters. Robert McCarter, counsel for the N. A. M. made the accusation verbally, and James E. Watson of Indiana, former republican whip of the house, wrote a stinging letter refusing to appear before the committee. Watson said that testifying while the committee was in its present frame of mind, "would be like flinging his version before the wind."

McCarter in answering the angry protests of Senator Reed that he would not listen to a "lecture," charged the democrats with a grave breach of etiquette in granting interview stating that Mulhall's testimony had practically proven the N. A. M. an "insidious lobby."

Watson was to have taken the stand today. His decision not to testify, but to "take his case to another tribunal where the law will be impartially weighed" caused a switch in the committee's program. Senator Townsend of Michigan, appeared at his own request to brand Mulhall as a "liar," and "a self-confessed corruptionist."

Watson's letter to Overman was bitter in condemning statements summing up the Mulhall testimony, appearing in a New York newspaper last Saturday signed by Senators Overman, Reed and Walsh.

"These," he said, "plainly state that a majority of your committee without waiting to make a formal report, voluntarily rushed into print to render a decision, and to pronounce judgment, before a single witness for the defense was heard and before one syllable of rebutting testimony was offered."

"I submit that you have prejudged my evidence," Watson wrote. "You have passed on its character and sufficiency without having heard it, for while you do not specifically mention my name, yet you have privately determined and publicly announced that Mulhall has made his case."

"I have no connection with the N. A. M., but these statements make it clear that even I were to PROVE Mulhall to be a perjurer, yet my case would not be helped. . . . Therefore, senators, it would in my judgment be farcical for me to appear before your committee."

SOCIETY LEADERS KILLED IN SMASH

S. Osgood Pell and Adam Laimbeer Die When
Electric Train
Hits Auto

MRS. LAIMBEER SERIOUSLY HURT

Noted Beauty May Lose
Her Charms as Result of Injuries in Long Island
Wreck

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—S. Osgood Pell, noted real estate dealer, Adam Laimbeer, wealthy broker, and Pell's chauffeur are dead today as a result of a crossing accident on Long Island last night, when an electric train crashed into Pell's automobile. Pell and the chauffeur were instantly killed. Laimbeer died this morning.

May Lose Beauty
Mrs. Laimbeer was still at the Nausau hotel, Long Beach. She was the beautiful Nathalie Schenk, prominent in society. In addition to suffering a broken leg, her face is badly cut and bruised. Mrs. Laimbeer will recover, but the physicians can only hope that her face may not be scarred for life.

Mrs. Pell was in a serious condition today from the shock and was under the care of a physician. With William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., the Pells and Laimbeers had dinner together at Long Beach and had started for the Laimbeer home at Hempstead, when the accident occurred. Mrs. Pell was riding with Vanderbilt in a two seated roadster. The Pell car was just ahead, Laimbeer and his wife being in the rear seat.

No Lights
It is declared that the heavy eight car electric train was rushing down the track with lights except in two cars extinguished. There were no lights at the crossing and the watchman had just gone off duty.

The automobile was thrown 100 feet. Pell and the chauffeur were instantly killed and Laimbeer and his wife thrown to the side of the track seriously injured. Several machines had gotten between the Pell and the Vanderbilt cars. On hearing the crash Vanderbilt stopped and walked forward. He returned to his machine, drove back to Nausau hotel, not telling Mrs. Pell that her husband had met with an accident until reaching the hotel. When Mrs. Pell realized that her husband had been killed, she fainted in Vanderbilt's arms.

It was feared this afternoon that the death toll would be increased to four as Mrs. Laimbeer, physicians stated, was in a serious condition. In addition to the broken leg, Mrs. Laimbeer suffered internal injuries and it is now feared she may not recover.

PREDICT MANY DISCHARGES

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The baseball hammerfest opens in earnest today when two local newspapers printed rumors that Maager John Evers of the Cubs, Calahan of the Chicago White Sox, and President Chivington of the American Association, are to be "canned."

Evers, according to the baseball writers, is to be succeeded shortly by Roger Bresnahan; President Comiskey is sore at the White Sox showing and looking for a new leader, and there is a conspiracy in the eastern end of the association circuit to get Chivington's job.

The customary denials followed the publication of the stories.

CENTENNIAL FLEET GREET'S WISCONSIN

MANITOWOC, Wis., Aug. 4.—A booming salute welcomed the Perry centennial fleet to Wisconsin this morning. Convoys by the U. S. revenue cutter Tuscarora, the United States steamer Wolverine and the U. S. S. Wasp, the restored flagship Niagara steamed into Manitowoc harbor at daybreak and the first celebration of Perry week in Wisconsin began. Officers of the Niagara and the escort ships were entertained at a reception and luncheon and taken for an automobile ride about the city this afternoon.

SCOUR COUNTRY FOR GANG

Believed to Be Remnants of Aggregation Operating in North Three Years Ago

VIRGINIA, Minn., Aug. 4.—Squads of armed officers are scouring the country side near here today in search of the robbers and incendiaries who held a carnival of looting and pillage here at an early hour this morning. Shortly after two o'clock the firebugs set fire to Mesburg and Lavick's furniture store with flats above and before assistance could be called the building was gutted and the occupants of the flats driven to the street in their night clothes narrowly escaping death.

The state bank of Virginia was the next place visited. A small amount of cash and stamps was secured after which the building was set on fire. The Duluth, Mesaba & North ern depot was robbed and fired after which Andrew Grandels' warehouse was set ablaze. The fires in the latter three places were checked before the buildings were destroyed.

Just before the fires were stayed, the police were called to a distant part of the town by a fake call. The robbers used oil soaked cloths in each case to start the fires.

Local police are being assisted by special detectives from Duluth. The entire Iron Range is being surrounded in an effort to round up the thieves who are believed to be remnants of the gang that operated in the northern part of the state three years ago and with whom Dr. Dumas was associated. Threats of lynching are being heard on every hand in case of arrests.

acceptance by the commission of the percentage contracts, as making a moral or legal necessity for higher rates than could be otherwise justified. Increased traffic has been insufficient to meet the increases in the demands of the rail carriers. The inevitable result must be to constantly increase the cost of service to the shipper if the commission is to yield to the demand.

The commission declared that if it accepted the railroads express carriage contracts as binding, the roads could constantly increase charges and the public be "gouged" for continued increases agreed upon by the railroads and the express concerns.

"A considerable part of the respondents' (the express companies) arguments is to the effect that the loss of business to the parcels post will so far reduce their earnings as to render all previous investigations valueless," the commission says. "This is equal to saying that inasmuch as shippers have been given the convenience and economy of parcels post, the express carriers must, on that account, be allowed to charge higher rates than would otherwise be reasonable. That is to say, the commission is called upon to take from the shippers of the country all benefit that they receive from the parcels post and give it to the express companies in the form of higher rates upon remaining express business."

"So far as the rail carriers are concerned, it is of no consequence to them whether they furnish rail transportation for the express companies or the post department."

That the express companies give way $2,000,000 worth of free service every year through "franks" is asserted by the commission.

FRYE SHOE STORE ENDS ITS CAREER

The Frye shoe store, 22 Main street, closed its doors Saturday, ending a career which has been one of the longest of any shoe store in the city. The store will re-open early in September, entirely remodeled, with new fixtures, under the name of Frye & Adams. An entire new stock will be put in. Mr. Frye and Mr. Adams leaving early this week for the east to make their selections. The Frye & Adams company will operate two stores in the city. Mr. Adams remaining in charge of the business at his present location in Willing's, and Mr. Frye superintending the new store, 422 Main street.

LOCAL MILITIA AT PERRY CELEBRATION

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION

Fire Department Claims
This May Be Responsible for $500 Loss at Downtown Restaurant

Fire of unknown origin but which Nathan Bradfield, chief of the fire department, says may have been caused by spontaneous combustion, at 10 o'clock last night wrecked the second floor of the building occupied by the Schrank restaurant, 412 Main street.

The damage, which was estimated at $500 is covered by insurance, it is said.

The floor was formerly used as a cafe by Joseph Schrank, but closed down this spring.

The fire originated in a closet used as a storeroom in the rear of the structure. Disinfectants and other inflammable material was stored there, it is said.

The flames followed up the walls of the closet and out through a skylight directly above. Owing to the location of the fire it was not discovered until it was well under way. The telephone wires were strung directly above the skylight and were burned down. To this fact is attributed some of the delay in notifying the department.

Lennox's Millinery store, located west of the cafe was not injured while the Park Store which joins the building in the rear, also escaped without loss.

VANCOUVER BIDS HIGHEST FOR BOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—A conference between Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion, and James Coffroth, the local promoter, this afternoon was the latest development in Ritchie's plan to offer his next fight to the highest bidder.

The champion has received offers so far from Promoters McIntyre of Vancouver, and McMahon and Gibson, of New York, McCarney of Los Angeles, and Andrews of Milwaukee. McIntyre offered $15,000 and one-half of the moving picture fights for a fifteen round scrap with Freddie Welsh. The terms and opponents suggested in the other offers have not been made public.

It is not believed Coffroth will make an offer in excess of the Vancouver bid.

BRITISH WAR SCARE FAILS TO IMPRESS

Wilson Smiles at Attempt to Work Up Sensation Over English Operations in Bermuda

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—The attempt to create a war scare over the announcement that Great Britain plans extensive improvements to her naval station at Bermuda failed to create even a ripple in administration circles today. The president, in his regular Monday talk with the news paper correspondents, made it plain that he did not believe there was any chance of connecting the contemplated changes with a violation of the principles of the Monroe doctrine. The president is familiar with Bermuda and conditions there.

The president said that Great Britain has always maintained a very large naval base, with elaborate anchorages, docks and quarters at Bermuda. The changes which have resulted in the allegation that England planned violation of the Monroe doctrine have been in contemplation for some time.

The report that President Wilson has closed the doors of the white house against the democratic members who are opposing his currency reform measure was declared at the executive offices to be unfounded.

The white house has accepted the explanation of both Great Britain and Germany that their plan of non-participation in the Panama-Pacific exposition is due entirely to the cost which they consider prohibitive when results are considered. But the president and secretary of state will continue to urge the two great nations to reconsider.

GIVEN ICE CREAM AT GUNS' POINT

La Crosse Girl Bride Is Given Novel Reception
by Husband's Friends
in Montana

Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Sherman of Terry, Montana, were given one of the most novel receptions on record when they were held up on the road while driving and tendered an ice cream toast in the western woods. The young couple, who are well known here, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's father, Albert Kirschner, at 1112 Badger street, some weeks ago.

Upon the arrival at the home of the groom in Terry they were invited to take a carriage ride in the country. A short distance out of the city they were held up by five masked men who took all the money they had and their jewelry.

The robbers then commanded them to jump in the buggy. They drove a few hundred yards when they were ordered out again. By this time the couple were badly frightened, and with fearfulness they climbed out of the buggy and were escorted a few yards in the woods at the side of the road. There they found a party of over a hundred. They were treated to ice cream and taken back to town in an automobile, where the jollification went on during a part of the night.

LACK OF RAIN
FLURRIES MARKET
CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—With not a drop of moisture in sight to relieve the parched corn belt of the middle west, corn speculators put out fresh bulletins today declaring that the damage to the crop would reach 250,000,000 bushels and perhaps more.

An excited rush to buy corn set the board of trade in a flurry today when the weather map showed that no rain fell throughout the corn belt on Sunday. In half an hour the prices were whirled past 70 cents for September futures and 67 1-2c for December. Toward noon big speculators who have been carefully hoarding their supply unloaded some offerings and further advance in prices was checked for the time at least.

TO OFFER MEDIATION.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Secretary of Labor Wilson this afternoon detailed Walter B. Palmer of the bureau of labor statistics to go at once to the Michigan copper mining region and lend his aid in effecting a settlement of the miners' strike around Calumet. Palmer will offer the government's assistance in mediating the controversy.

Crater Lake.
Crater lake, National park, is situated on the summit of the Cascade range in south central Oregon. It has an area of 159,360 acres and is located in the midst of a beautiful mountain country, the principal attraction being Crater lake, a body of water having an area of twenty and one quarter square miles (water surface), which is situated in the caldera of an extinct volcano. The lake is surrounded by unbroken cliffs which range from 500 to nearly 2,000 feet in height. The coloring of the water and of the surrounding cliffs presents some of the most striking pictures seen in the western mountain country.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The stock market opened firm.

11 a. m.—Business was light during the first hour, but there were indications of improvement after the early sales were absorbed. Trading was narrow. In some quarters it was contended that the continuance of drought in the corn belt was more than offset as a stock market factor by heavy rains in Texas, greatly benefitting the cotton crop.

Noon—The market was exceedingly dull during the second hour. 2 p. m.—The market showed increased strength and activity in the early afternoon. The stock market closed strong.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Corn continued to mount to new high levels today when the weather map showed not a drop of rain had fallen over the corn belt on Sunday and none in sight. September jumped 3/4c at the start, passing the predicted 70 cent figure, and rushed up to 71 1/4c. December made a similar advance.

Cooler weather brought some encouragement to the bears and after the first excited flurry in the corn pit, corn leaders showed a disposition to unload at above 70 cents. Consequently the advance was checked and the market reacted until at noon prices were only 1/4 to 3/4c above last week's close. It was the first sign of a break in several days.

Wheat was influenced by corn and unfavorable crop news from abroad. Prices were 3/4 to 5/8c higher at the
